Hurry up KRASH Heads! Send us your best emails and drawings NOW! We love getting drawings from you guys. We always do our best to publish as many as possible! Shoot 'em through to krash@nuclear.com.au or write us a letter to PO Box 1382, Bondi Jn NSW 1555.

LETTER OF THE MONTH

HEY KRASH,

I have been looking for a cool mag for 6 years. Then I found KRASH! The only thing is that I think you should have a bigger joke section. Now every time I see a KRASH mag I beg for it. I have a whole pile in my room and my desk is full of KRASH mags.

Dimitri, 11, Vic

HEY! WHAT'S UP

KRASH? You guys have the coolest jobs in the WORLD!! I'm a Pokemon fanatic! I have your mag from 2 years ago. Up to now I have been collecting them. I love the WWE and the Pokemon and the GameSta! Your the coolest mag in the world!!

Nathan, by email

HEY KRASH HEADS.

It's ur number 1 fan Harley here. I have been a fan of ur mag for ages. My fave sections are WWE, Rib Ticklers, Shame Shack, Speak Up, and GameSta. I love the freebies that come with ur mag. Keep up the good freebies and have more WWE freebies too please. My favourite wrestlers are John Cena, Rey Mysterio, The Undertaker, Shawn Michaels, Hulk Hogan, C.M. Punk and many more. My fave WWE brand is RAW, then ECW, then SmackDown. Keep up the great work ur mag is the best.

Harley, Vic, by email

YO KRASH, I know that you probably think that this is another email that says how much I love KRASH and stuff. Well it's not because its sent by ME. I think your mag rocks cos of all the awesome prizes that you can win. I've just got one question? Where do you get it all? My favourite parts of your mag is GameSta and Speak Up - which is why I'm writing to u - cos I want to see my letter in your next issue! Keep up the great work KRASH.

Stu, by email

HEY KRASH,

Your mag rocks unlike anything else in the world – so keep up the good work. I absolutely love the wrestling because it's the best. My fave wrestler is Mrrrr... Kennedy... Kennedy. I also like motorbikes. I hope u like my SpongeBob SquarePants pic. It's my best. Cody, 11, Vic

THE NEWZ STORIES THIS MONTH ARE OUT OF THIS WORLD!

ANIMAL PRINT PROHIBITED

The Chessington World of Adventures Resort wildlife park has restricted visitors from wearing leopard print clothing claiming it can confuse the animals. The resort has introduced a zero-tolerance policy on such outfits and has hired bouncers to enforce the rule. According to zookeepers, some animals have attempted to communicate with people wearing animal print clothing or have run away in fear. Spokeswoman, Natalie Dilloway, claimed, "Visitors get so close to wild species that if someone wears the same pattern to the animal's coat they can become over-friendly. If they wear the pattern of its predator, it has the opposite effect and the animals become afraid." Animal Print Bouncers have since been recruited to identify visitors dressed in animal pattern leggings, coats, tops, hats or dresses and supply them with grey boiler suits to wear instead.

MR MARMITE

North Shields, UK, was previously known as Saire May but wanted to show his 'devotion and passion' towards the dark brown spread saying, "I'm not exactly sure how old I was when I first tried Marmite, but I just remember eating it as far back as I can remember... I like the smell, the taste, the texture. I think I pretty much like everything about it." The 38-year-old confessed he consumes

An English man has changed his surname by deed poll to match his favourite sandwich spread, Marmite. The man from one jar per week and also collects various Marmite paraphernalia, such as, limited edition jars, cufflinks and a recipe book from the Second World War.

Mr Marmite admitted his family found the name change strange but added his mother "just shrugged her shoulders, she expects this kind of thing from me."

SNAKES ON A SYDNEY PLANE

Hundreds of Tokyo bound travelers were recently stranded overnight in Sydney when a 20 centimetre Mandarin rat snake was discovered in the doorway of a Qantas 747 jet. Reports claim the flight was cancelled when the snake was found prior to boarding. The sneaky snake resulted in the passengers spending a night in nearby hotels whilst an investigation of the plane was completed by Australia's Agriculture Department. The Mandarin rat snake is a species that can grow approximately one metre in length and is believed to have arrived the previous day on board a jet from Singapore. One passenger, Noah Harris, said, "We got a night in a nice hotel and we lose a day of our trip to Tokyo, but what are you going to do? It's a good story." Earlier this year, a three metre python attempted to hitch a ride on board the wing of a Qantas flight from Cairns to Papua New Guinea.

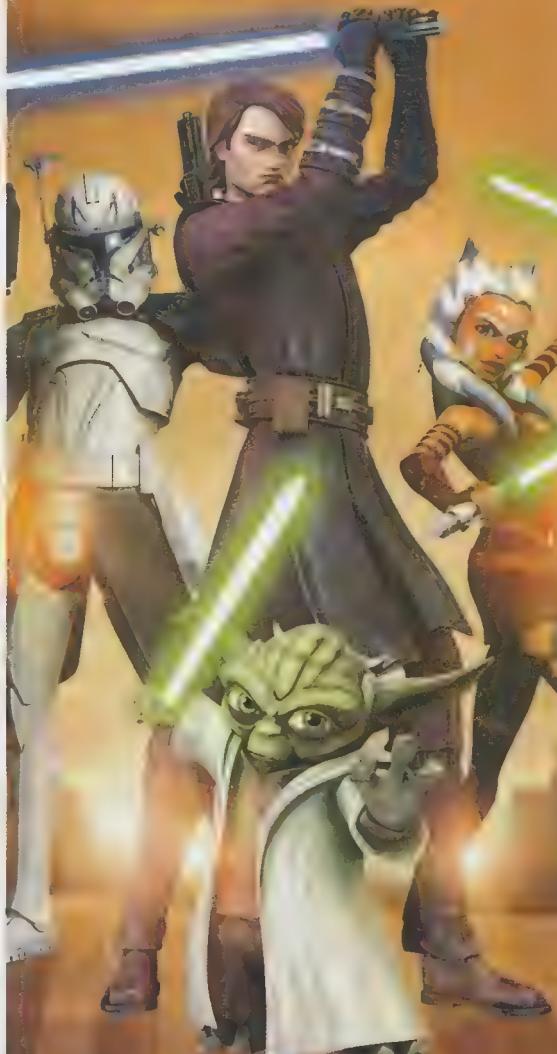

BALLOON DREAM BUSTED

An ambitious attempt to cross the Atlantic Ocean dangling from helium-filled balloons has been cancelled for daredevil, Jonathan Trappe. The 39-year-old was originally lifted into the air by 370 giant balloons at Caribou, Maine, America, hoping to complete a 4,023 kilometre solo journey. However, due to technical difficulties, Trappe was "forced to abandon his quest early" according to his official website. Trappe's dream was to float across the Atlantic Ocean and land somewhere in Europe within three to five days. In the lead up to lift off, Trappe said, "Weather is absolutely the most dangerous factor. But it's a double-edged sword. It's the only thing that will carry me across, but bad conditions could also ruin the attempt or endanger my life." Should the aviator have been successful, he would have entered the history books as the first person to scale the ocean by balloons. Aww!

THE TIGER FAMILY LA TOMATINA

A family in Brazil has demonstrated their dedication to saving endangered tigers by adopting seven of them into their home. Eight years ago, Ary Borges saved two tigers from a circus and developed a sanctuary in his garden including a backyard pool. The 43-year-old and his daughters, Nayara, 20, Uyara, 23, and Deusanira, 24, have embraced the tigers as family members and now live, eat and swim with the big cats. Borges even allows his two-year-old granddaughter to ride on the back of the man-eating animals and stated, "I was never worried about my daughters co-existing with these animals. You have to show the animals respect and love." The tigers receive regular walks on lead and are also allowed into family kitchen during mealtime. Daughter, Uraya claimed, "Every day since they were born we have taken care of them and fed them so their instincts become dormant. They are part of the family. I can't imagine life without them."

EXTRA TERRESTRIAL VEHICLE FOR SALE

An American man has advertised his self-built Extra Terrestrial Vehicle for sale on eBay. Michael Vetter spent six months developing the futuristic 'ETV' and has requested $100,000 as the price tag. Features of the car include front and rear air adjustable suspension, a paint job valued at $8,000, plasma lights, wireless remote system and three onboard cameras with monitors. Vetter stated, "This is not a kit car, this is a manufactured car. Everything is street legal. The ride is smooth and solid and reliable. I do not hesitate to drive this car on the interstate at high speed. Due to the shape of the car the faster you go it seems to get more quiet inside." The Extra Terrestrial Vehicle also has a 2.2 litre engine and a four cylinder Chevy motor with a supercharger. Vroom!

ALIEN BUGS IN ATMOSPHERE

A group of British scientists claim they have discovered small bugs from outer space in the Earth's atmosphere. Experts from the University of Sheffield, revealed that tiny organisms were found on a research balloon that was sent 27 kilometres into the atmosphere during the recent Perseids meteor shower. After strict testing, Professor Milton Wainwright, claimed, "We can only conclude that the biological entities originated from space. Our conclusion then is that life is continually arriving to Earth from space, life is not restricted to this planet and it almost certainly did not originate here." The findings are to be published in the Journal of Cosmology with further investigations and experiments to be implemented. Wainwright added, "If life does continue to arrive from space then we have to completely change our view of biology and evolution...New textbooks will have to be written." Do, do, do do...

CLIFFSIDE CAMPING

An outdoor activity centre in Germany has developed a camping experience located 150 metres up the face of a mountain. The extreme accommodation, known as a 'portaledge', consists of a super strong frame covered in canvas and secured to a cliff face in the German Alps. Campers must scale the mountain and can only bring along the bare essentials, such as, a sleeping bag, rope and small amount of food. Company, Waldseilgarten-Hollschlucht, charge just over $1,290 for a two person stay, per night. Adventurers sleep alongside a trained instructor, who holds the outside position inches from the sheer drop, and wear a safety harness at all times, in case they roll over in their sleep! Employee and climbing expert, Robin Currie, described the experience, known as the 'Big Wall', as, "the most extreme form of camping...There's no-one else in the world offering this kind of camping experience - we are unique." Yep, unique and crazy!

SKATEBOARDING BUGGY

A golfer from Seattle, Washington, has invented a motorised skateboard buggy to make the sport more exciting. Paul Hodge stated, "A golf buggy is boring, the GolfBoard makes golf fun again, I enjoy riding to get my ball, more than the golfing itself now...It has a feeling of surfing, especially without the bindings, with the bindings it really feels a lot like snowboarding." The 40-year-old believes the invention can revolutionise golf and attract younger people. The GolfBoard is battery-powered, cruises at 19 kilometres per hour and features a handheld controller allowing the user to accelerate, slow down and reverse. Complete with wide turf tyres, the skateboarding buggy lasts for 36 holes and includes a handle to attach a golf bag, as well as, storage space for snacks and refreshments.

MEATBALLS 2

Cloudy with a Chance of Meatballs 2 picks up where Sony Pictures Animation's hit comedy left off.

Inventor Flint Lockwood's genius is finally being recognised as he's invited by his idol Chester V to join The Live Corp Company, where the best and brightest inventors in the world create technologies for the betterment of mankind. Chester's right-hand-gal - and one of his greatest inventions - is Barb (a highly evolved orangutan with a human brain, who is also devious, manipulative and likes to wear lipstick). With the fate of humanity in his hands, Chester sends Flint and his friends on a dangerously delicious mission, battling hungry tacodiles, shrimpanzees, apple pie-thons, double bacon cheespiders and other food creatures to save the world again!

MONTH'S

NEWS

HOLY Hardware, BATMAN!

There have been a lot of big announcements this past month, ensuring that the PS4, Xbox One and 2DS aren't the only new gaming systems coming to a Christmas Tree near you. Legendary PC download service Steam has confirmed that their service will be appearing on new consoles that will sit in your lounge room and connect to your TV. Check out this image of its odd controller! Sony has announced something called Vita TV, a pocket-sized console that plugs into your TV and streams some apps and a selection of Vita and PSN games. The company also revealed the PlayStation Vita Slim, a version of the awesome handheld that is 20% thinner, 15% lighter, has an increased battery length of six hours and 1GB of storage space. It's all happening!

It's raining games this month, but rather than put up an umbrella, we've swallowed them all up.

An Australian called Andrew Wilson is now the fastest man in Australia.

Sorry, there will be no Kinect sensor in Australia, but you can get the Australian version of the Xbox One at launch.

An HD re-release of classic mobile racing game Waze Sport is heading to the Vita via eShop as a download game title.

Apple sold 200 iPhone 5C and 5S phones in just three days to break its own record... wow!

Actor Colin Farrell (Minority Report, The Road) has joined the cast of the World War II survival epic, The Siege of Jadotville.

The fighting game Devil's Capitals sequel to the 2008 original game is on its way to the 3DS.

The PS4's new PlayStation Eye camera will be able to track up to four characters just like Kinect.

Console manufacturer Microsoft has announced that it will have a full range of Kinect accessories available in November.

Rayman: Forest Run is the latest Rayman game to Rayman Jungle Run that's coming to iOS this month.

Isoft has hinted that Rayman Legends may come to iOS.

PlayStation Attorney Dual Discs are back on the market right now.

The blockbuster spin-off Harry Potter and the Prisoner of Azkaban will get its own game adaptation.

free-to-play downloadable version of cool fighting series Soul Calibur is coming to the PS3.

PAC YOUR BAGS

Over the last few issues we have been closely following the development of one of the more exciting games of the year; Pac-Man and the Ghostly Adventures. Well guess what KRASH Heads? It's almost here – woo!

TITLE: Pac-Man and the Ghostly Adventures
FORMAT: PS3, 360, Wii U, 3DS, PC
GENRE: Adventure
RELEASE: Nov-28

Pac-man has made a pretty big oops-ee. He went and got himself lost in the school maze, stumbled into a ruin and then opened the gate to the Netherworld. Now ghosts are flooding into the Pac-World, and the evil Betrayus is taking his chance to conquer the land – noooo!! Lucky Pac-Man, his good friends Spiral and Cylindria, and you – the legendary Krash Heads – are here to save the day. Right?

Other than the cool story, there are three things we love about this game. It looks and sounds just like the TV show; the levels are bright and full of detail, and you can totally chain attack multiple ghosts in a row – chomp! chomp! chomp! Finding super powers that let you do things like fly over large gaps or climb up steep walls is awesome, too. And then there is the mix of colourful 3D levels and classic old-school 2D sidescrolling missions. Actually, there are way more than three things we love about this game.

Controlling Pac-Man is pretty simple as the camera does a good job of controlling itself, plus when you master the chain attacks that allow you to jump from ghost to ghost really quickly, you can build up your meter and unleash special attacks. You begin in the school, which has little arcade video games to play with and characters from the TV show to talk to. Then, when you are ready, you can go out and explore the worlds you have unlocked, kind of like Super Mario 3D World.

When your friends are around you can enjoy some cool four-player splitscreen multiplayer, which puts a twist on the action by letting you play as the ghosts chasing Pac! We've been watching this game for a while, so we're stoked it has ended up a super solid platform adventure game. One where you aren't scared of ghosts - they're scared of you!

10 TIMES THE FUN

The legendary adventures of Cartoon Network star Ben 10 (and his awesome alien transformations) takes an exciting new turn...

- TITLE: Ben 10: Omniverse 2
- FORMAT: PS3, 360, Wii U, 3DS
- GENRE: Dungeon Crawler
- RELEASE: Nov-22

The Incureans are attacking. This frog-like species of hardcore warriors has entered the galaxy and Earth is their prize. With the creator of the Omnitrix, Azmuth, by his side, Ben 10 races back to Earth to lead the resistance, heading straight onto the Incurean's intergalactic warship. It's a race against time for Ben, and he must get in and defeat their evil leader before it's too late.

This sense of urgency carries over into the gameplay, too. As with the previous games... well, except Ben 10 Galactic Racing... the focus is on combat. Especially on linking combos together. Now, because the countdown clock to doom is ticking, Ben can link together combos involving multiple alien forms with ease. As you progress through the game you'll unlock more power-ups as well, and it all works together to give you more freedom in combat. There are some rad finishing moves, too.

Just as exciting are the new running levels.

Here, instead of directly controlling Ben 10 like you do in the combat areas, he is bolting through a stage at a superfast speed. You need to react quickly to avoid obstacles, switching to certain alien forms at just the right time to use their special abilities and escape death. This is a great addition to the formula... maybe it does have a bit of Ben 10 Galactic Racing in it after all.

Omniverse 2 uses the same comic-like, cartoony visual style that the series moved to a few years back, which we think works a treat. And we love that it's a new story written by the show's creators. With a stack of alien forms to explore (see more on the next page), a cool multiplayer co-op brawler mode (where the second player takes on the role of Rook) and a focus on fast-paced gameplay, this is an easy game to like.

DID YOU KNOW?

The story fits between episodes 29 and 30 of the Omniverse series.

THE ALIENS OF BEN 10: OMNIVERSE 2

The excellent new entry in the Ben 10 video game series packs even more alien forms into the action than ever before. Not only are there more forms to take on, but you can create epic combos where you can switch between aliens in the middle of a fight to link together their different moves. To help you pull this off, the Omnitrix (geez we wish we had one of those in real life!) can organise the alien forms into different classes of fighter. This allows you to quickly select the style of fighter you want when you're in the heat of combat. Here is a look at all the aliens you can try out:

WHO ARE THE INCURSEANS?

In Ben 10: Omniverse 2, our hero and his buddy Rook need to tackle an all new enemy, the Incureans. But who are they? These funny looking dudes come from a planet that was destroyed years ago. They're tech heads and love their gadgets. Plus they are kind of frog-like in the sounds they make and the way they look. They even have long sticky tongues, can jump pretty high and have warts. Surprisingly this strange race is known for its violent, warrior-like attempts to conquer the galaxy under the leadership of Lord Emperor Milleous, and later the Princess Attea. Thankfully, they have one weakness; they can't handle bad smells. Maybe Ben should just fart his way to victory?

HANDY STUFF

COULD THIS BRAND NEW, NEXT-GENERATION POKÉMON TITLE BE THE BIGGEST 3DS GAME OF THE YEAR?

X AND Y MARK THE SPOT

- POKÉMON X AND Y
- 3DS
- STRATEGY-RPG
- OUT NOW

The first thing you will notice when you turn on the brand new Pokémon game from Nintendo is how good it looks. We've never seen a handheld Pokémon game look this good before, thanks to its fully 3D character and Pokémon models. It's especially awesome in battles, where the Pokémon now have these great animations to enjoy. Add this to the extra detail in the world, a brand new region to explore – based on France – and some sections where the camera provides an over-the-shoulder view and it's enough to make your eyes jump out of your head and start shufflin'!

Graphics are not everything, however. We love great gameplay a lot more and Nintendo has really listened to fan feedback when making this sequel. Fans will be instantly familiar with the classic top down view and the way you explore the world seeking out new Pokémon to battle and capture – it doesn't completely change the gameplay. However, you can see the effort that has gone into improving the overall experience.

Here are the ten new improvements that we love most from Pokémon X and Y.

1) Trainer Customization: Before you kick off into your big adventure to be the best trainer in the land of Kalos, you can now go a lot deeper to customize your appearance and clothing. You can be a boy or a girl, too – though who would want to be a girl?

2) Teach Your Pets: Kind of like the legendary Nintendogs series, you can now try and form a bond with your Pokémon. By patting them with the touchscreen or giving them food, plus you can also train games to help them train. This means you not only get a stronger connection to your critters, but you can improve their stats so they are better in combat.

3) Mega Evolutions: By finding certain items and attaching them to some fully evolved Pokémon, you can add to your combat tactics by changing your favourite Pokémon. These guys are more powerful, and the transformation has a neat animation.

④ The New Fairy Pokémons:

For the first time since way back in the year 2000, there is a new Pokémon type. It's called the Fairy type, and it includes all new Pokémons and classic critters that have changed their type. The new type is wicked against dragons.

⑤ Cool Online Features: If your 3DS is online, you will get notifications about other players that you don't know, trade with all over battle. This is an awesome feature that we really like, so if you haven't already, get your 3DS online Krash Heads!

⑥ It's Not as Easy to get Lost: There are plenty of secrets to discover as you explore the massive world, but unlike previous games, you are kept from wandering too far off into the maze like wilderness. This helps you keep on track and moves the game along at a better pace.

⑦ Mid-Air Battles: In fights involving flying Pokémons, the trainers take to the air, which is a neat little addition that is bit more realistic.

⑧ Battle the Horde: One of the interesting new encounters you will face in your adventure has a number of Pokémons awaiting you at once, causing you take down a hoarde of them with smart tactics.

⑨ There are three new starter Pokémons to choose from: Chespin, Fennekin and Fraxina. Which will be your favourite? We're a little bit partial to Fennekin – we rock his big ears and fire type.

GANGSTA

⑩ At the end of it all, when you, your friends and your party of Pokémons have lied hours of fun, you will have won the eight gym badges, taken down the elite four of the Pokémon League and ultimately, becoming the champion – cool!

So as you can see, Pokémon X and Y is packed with some great new features and twists that make this the best game in the series for over a decade. But even with all this new stuff, it's the original game play ideas we still love. It's just so much fun finding out which Pokémon is going to leap out of the tall grass next, capturing it and then helping it grow into bigger and better for many levels up. Classic!

DID YOU KNOW?

If you are new to the Pokémon series, you may be wondering why there are two games coming out – one called X, the other called Y. Well, Nintendo do this with all their handheld Pokémon games; the only difference between the two is a few different Pokémons.

EVERYTHING YOU NEED TO KNOW

We're more excited than a puppy in a tennis ball store. A brand new console from the almighty Sony is here and the PlayStation 4 has been seven long years in the making. Here is everything you need to know about this blockbuster release.

VITAL INFORMATION

- ON-SALE: November 29
- PRICE: $549
- INCLUDES:
 - A DualShock 4 Controller
 - An HDMI cable
 - PS4 earbuds
 - The Playroom (a collection of augmented reality minigames)
- EXTRA CONTROLLER: $99.95
- PLAYSTATION CAMERA: $89.95

THE CONSOLE

The PS4 looks very, very cool. It's kind of space age, kind of sleek and kind of slanty. It's a nice size, too. A lot smaller than the original PS3, although not quite as small as the recently released PS3 super slim. Either way, we're impressed by just how much more power they have squeezed into this little black wonder. Tech heads will geek out at the 8GB of RAM, and with the high-end graphics card and super-fast CPU, it's about ten times more powerful than the PS3. Which means ten times better games, right?!

THE CONTROLS

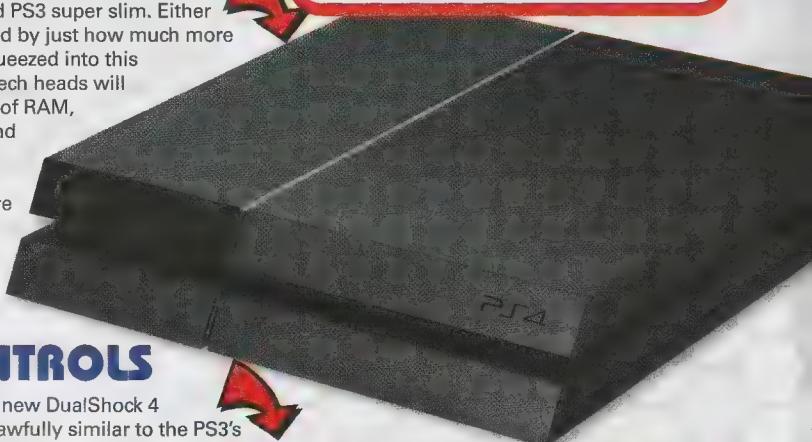

At first glance the new DualShock 4 controller looks awfully similar to the PS3's DualShock 3 controller, but it's actually quite different. For starters, the sticks are smaller and hold your thumbs better, and the triggers are curved so your fingers don't slip off. There is now a touchpad between the sticks that you can flick your thumb across to do cool things during the game, too. While a light on the front can be tracked by the PlayStation Camera for motion-based games (you can also use a Move controller). Finally there is a share button, which will eventually allow you to quickly upload video footage of your latest gaming efforts with your friends online – how nuts is that?!

PLUS, THIS IS AWESOME

We're huge fans of PlayStation Plus, the online service you can subscribe to on the PS3. It will be available on the PS4, too, and this time you will need to have an account – even if it is just your parent's account – to play online. The good news is, as part of your subscription you get stacks and stacks of free games to play! Woo! It's awesome value at only $70. And speaking of going online, there is a handy PS4 App you can download to your smartphone, too.

DID YOU KNOW?

You can stream games from your PS4 to your PlayStation Vita, turning it into a second screen much like the second screen on a Wii U controller.

KNOW ABOUT THE PS4

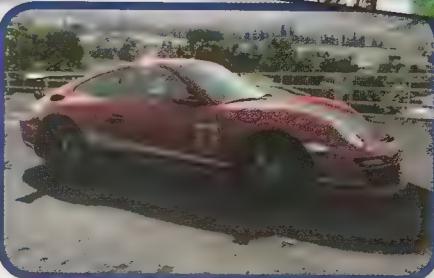

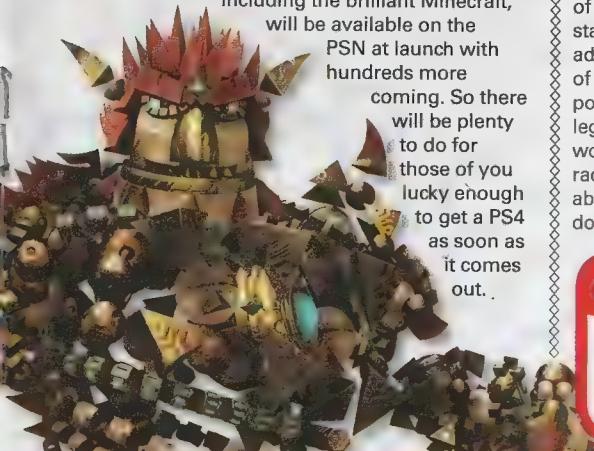

THE GAMES

One of PlayStation's biggest strengths is its awesome exclusive games. Even though massive multiformat games like FIFA 14, Call of Duty: Ghosts, Need for Speed Rivals, Lego Marvel Super Heroes, Skylanders: Swap Force and Just Dance 2014 will be available on November 29, it's the cool exclusives that have us excited. Games like Killzone: Shadow Fall, DriveClub and Knack will be available at launch, while the amazing Infamous: Second Son is due in February. Overall there will be 15 full console games available on launch day.

On top of the fantastic games available to buy in shops, Sony has been working extra hard to make sure there are also awesome indie and downloadable games to pick up on the PlayStation Network. A further 12 games, including the brilliant Minecraft, will be available on the PSN at launch with hundreds more coming. So there will be plenty to do for those of you lucky enough to get a PS4 as soon as it comes out.

IF YOU HAD TO CHOOSE TWO GAMES...

As much as we'd love to, we can't afford every single game that is available at the launch of the PS4. If we had to pick just two, we would start with Knack. This is a super cool platform adventure game starring an odd hero made up of molecules that can transform and harness powers. It is made by the same guy behind the legendary Crash Bandicoot series! Then we would get DriveClub. It's a crazy fast racer with rad graphics, and a fun style of play that is all about beating your friend's best times, while still doing cool stuff like drifting.

DID YOU KNOW?

As well as playing games, the PlayStation 4 can be used to access all kinds of cool apps and goodies over the internet, from music to film to Facebook and more.

WHAT UP ON PLAYSTATION?

Sony may have the biggest release of the month in the PlayStation 4, but it is not neglecting its other gaming machines. Check out these two awesome titles.

RATCHET & CLANK: INTO THE NEXUS

PS3

Platformers often have heroes don't come any bigger than Ratchet & Clank, and we've loved every one of the previous 11 games. After all that practice, you know the gameplay is going to super fast and good. Wait! It's technically the fourth and final release in the Future storyline and not a follow-up to last year's classic game. We love that they have gone back to that classic style of gameplay. You can switch between both your heroes, flip around exploring the world, swing on tethers, solve puzzles (sometimes in odd actual 2D form) and upgrade your Nitrobin weapons. There's some cool new gags and gadgets, too. Like the Vortex Cannon that sucks enemies into a black hole and the Whirlwind that uses an ice tornado to turn enemies into snowmen. The science is laughable, especially in the cutscenes, and the story is nonsensical. Ratchet & Clank's decide a mysterious planet filled with spooky ghost-like creatures pursuit of escaped criminals in a jet.

GANE STA VERDICT: RETURN TO FORM

VITA

Media Molecule are the geniuses behind the LittleBigPlanet series and their latest effort, Tearaway, is just as creative. It's set in a world that is completely based on papercraft. This means that everything behaves like paper – it can be folded, cut, blown and even ripped in half. In fact, you can jam your finger onto the real touchpad and it will poke through into the game world – a good way to nail a baddie. It is cool ideas like that, which make this adventure such a unique one. Actually, reaching out to actually touch the world using the touchscreen is a key part of the gameplay – so even though this is 3D platform adventure title, it feels like something new and cool. It also looks amazing, as you clear enemies from parts of the world, the colours become spectacularly more bright and vibrant. And let's not forget the simple story – our hero is a messenger and he has an important message to deliver to you, the player. We wonder what it will say...

Media Molecule is also working on a secret PS4 game – is it LittleBigPlanet 3?

LEAVE YOUR LEGACY

- TITLE: YOUNG JUSTICE: LEGACY
- FORMAT: PS3, 360, WII U, 3DS, WII
- GENRE: ACTION-RPG
- RELEASE NOV-21

The must play action adventure game for fans of the TV show with story details you can get nowhere else.

The Young Justice TV series is one of our favourites. Following the adventures of The Team, a group of teenage super heroes in the Earth-16 universe – where super heroes have only been around for a little while – has been a wild ride. The stories are just so cool! But if you have been watching the show, you would have noticed that many characters had a change in personality and abilities between the first and second seasons of the show. What happened? There's like a five year story gap between the two seasons, surely something cool went down!

The Missing Years

Young Justice: Legacy fills in that gap and explores those missing years. It starts about a year before Season 2, known as Young Justice: Invasion, begins. Nightwing is not yet the team leader, but Aqualad, Artemis, Kid Flash, Zatanna and Rocket are all still part of the group, while Batgirl, Robin, Beast Boy and Tempest have just joined up. We'll also learn more about Bumblebee, Lagoon Boy, Black Canary, Red Tornado, Batman and, most notably, Red Arrow – we'll learn heaps about his adventures during the five-year gap.

In the game's first mission, we learn that The Light is plotting something quite nasty, and over the course of the game, The Team will need to confront twelve supervillains, including one all new baddie who has never appeared before in the TV show. We also know that in some missions, members of the Justice League – including Superman, Batman, Aquaman and Green Lantern – will team up with the Young Justice heroes to take on the Supervillains. It's an epic, massive, multi-level story that fans of all things "Hero" and "Super" will lap up.

Bringing the Biff

Young Justice: Legacy follows a similar formula to classic Super Hero games like X-Men Legends and Marvel Ultimate Alliance; you move through a 3D world, looking at your character from an isometric view (which is like a security camera, looking from above and to the sides). Up to three people can play at once on the console version (Lucy 3DS isn't), and while there are no mechanics to solve as you explore the world, the focus is totally on action. And let it though, because if you're going to be thrashing about like this with all those brawlers, you want to make good double-kicks! There are 12 playable characters to master and, ensuring you can do it in time to use their special abilities and skills in the right way to defeat the swarms of enemies is very important. Thankfully, pulling off combos is pretty easy thanks to the simple button layout.

It's worth noting that if you're playing alone, you can switch between the figures on-screen with the press of a button. You always need to think smartly about who to use and when, but also make sure the computer-controlled characters don't get killed by obstacles. If you can, play with friends – that's the best!

Joining The Team

Part of the fun of any action-RPG game is growing your character and you will be levelling up your heroes in Storyteller, increasing their abilities and equipping them with cool gear. There are 15 levels to battle through, so you will have plenty of time to get the hero that best suits your fighting style up to full strength. These levels mix-up the action, ranging from full-on fist fights to sneaky stealth. Once you complete the story there are other modes that become available. One of our favourites is the challenge mode, where your skills get really tested – for example, you might be challenged with defeating a certain number of bad dudes without taking any damage.

Fans of the TV show, or comic book heroes in general, should get a good kick out of Young Justice: Legacy, with a story, voice cast and visual style that adds to the show, and easy to master combat. You could even say it does the series (dunno roll, please) – justice.

Four additional characters will become available as downloadable content.

There are twelve characters in the game, but not all of them are playable from the start and you will need to unlock them as you play. You can also unlock three new costumes for each of the characters.

LEGO AND MARVEL

- TITANIC, WHO'S HAVING SUPER HEROES?
- FORMULA ONE CHAMPIONSHIP
- GOLF, SURFING AND...
- AND MUCH, MUCH MORE!

Just when you thought the LEGO series of games couldn't get more awesome, they go and add 150 super heroes to the mix!

Why Do The Lego Games Rule?

Since 2004, there have been more LEGO games than you have fingers and toes. What started as a bit of jokey fun with the original Star Wars rip-off, has become one of the biggest and best platform-adventure series on Earth. Each game has got bigger and better, throwing in more features, increasing the size of the game world and sharpening up the graphics. It has constantly provided one of the best co-op experiences out there, too. It's just so easy to pick up and play a LEGO game with your mates. It's not too hard, it's heaps of fun, is totally hilarious and there is always lots for everyone on the screen to do. That's why we love the LEGO series, and that is why we have smiles wider than four Hulks now that it's teamed up with Marvel. You know, those awesome comic guys!

The Doom Ray of Doom

Unlike many of the other games in the series, this is not based on a movie, or a book... or a movie about a book. It's an original story, and a good one too as it gets 150 - yes, we're not joking - playable characters from the Marvel universe into the video game. The action begins when the Silver Surfer is knocked out of the sky. His surfboard shatters into a number of cosmic bricks, which fall down to Earth. Spotting an opportunity, Doctor Doom gets all his enemy mates like Loki and Magneto together and heads out to find the bricks, which he can use to make his Doom Ray of Doom, which sounds awfully Doomish!

Naturally, the good guys aren't going to let this happen. S.H.I.E.L.D. director Nick Fury is quick to rally up all the super heroes in the universe to fight this threat, hoping to find all the cosmic bricks and to bring them to safety before the world gets doomified.

So Much Super Goodness

LEGO Marvel Super Heroes is mainly set in New York City, although as you'd expect, it's a New York in LEGO form. However, you will be able to explore other famous locations from the Marvel comics, such as Asgard. It's impressive just how good the technology running this series has become - the world and characters look as awesome it will make you wish all cities were LEGO in real life. Well, until you start smashing things to pieces and collecting or rearranging the blocks!

TEAM UP

For the most part, the game plays just like the other titles in the great series, with simple combat, plenty of level puzzles, classic co-op fun and quirky storytelling. Perhaps one of the best new features comes from the super heroes themselves. Even though there are way more characters than we could hope to list here, each of them has their own special moves and they are just what you would expect. The Hulk can pick up and throw large objects, while his alter-ego Bruce Banner is good at hacking computers. Spider-Man can swing with his web and use his spider sense. You get the idea – it's rad! We're super impressed that each character is unique and fun in both combat and puzzle solving.

There's more, of course. Every corner of the city has something to do, there are seven drivable vehicles to zip around the world in, and you can even enter buildings, where you can enjoy mini story sequences, narrated by the hilarious Deadpool. Somehow these dudes have taken two of the things we love most in the world – Marvel and LEGO – and joined them together into an awesome game.

IT'S TIME FOR A BIG

THE ADVENTURE TIME GAME
SUPPORTS SIXTEEN HUNDRED
FORMED: 2012
GENRE: ACTION
RELEASE: MAY 2013

A game this is much more than just a silly name!

Adventure Time is a pretty whacky show. It's awesome and we love it, but it's still kind of whacky. What else would you expect when the setting is a post-apocalyptic world where a dude called Finn and his best mate – a dog with magical powers that allow him change his shape – called Jake explore a land of magic that includes characters like Princess Bubblegum, the Ice King and Marceline the Vampire Queen. No wonder then it goes by the super whacky name of Adventure Time! Explore the dungeon because I DON'T KNOW.

which, while weird, isn't whackier than the name of the last game. That was 2012's Adventure Time: Hey Ice King! Why'd You Steal Our Garbage? But we've got good news for fans of that game – this new one is even better, I DO KNOW.

What's Down There?

The Candy Kingdom is in trouble. Big trouble. In order to save the day, players need to head deep beneath the Land of Ooo and into the Secret Royal Dungeon. There are a hundred levels to battle through, and you can take control of a number of classic characters during your journey. This includes Finn, Jake, Marceline, Ice King, Cinnamon Bun, Flame Princess, Lumpy Space Princess and many more. You can play the game in four-player co-op – awesome! – so fighting with your friends over who gets to play which character should be plenty of fun.

A Game Based on a TV Show based on a Game... who!?

You may not know this, but the creators of Adventure Time are big time gamers and much of the show is based on old-school games. Especially in dungeons & dragons RPGs experiences where you explore dungeons defeating bad dudes, looting them for goodies and exploring for traps and punishment. So it's awesome that they have decided to make an Adventure Time game that plays like those old-school classics.

You view the world from a top-down perspective kind of like Torchlight or Diablo. There are six different themes to the stages – like ice or medieval – and they mix-up as you make your way deeper underground. One thing that we love is how the levels have randomly generated elements – this basically means that things will appear in different places each time you play. Plus who you fight and what loot you collect will change up. It gives this game lots of replayability.

ADVENTURE

For the Fore

It's also really awesome how much the game feels like the show. The visual style is straight off the cartoon network and if you love the show, things like the character voices, the silly animations and cameos from monsters will have you giggling in delight. Each of the playable characters has their own strengths and weaknesses, too. For example, Marceline is kind of weak (she only has two hearts of health), but she can avoid traps and get over big gaps as she is so fast and can float, Cinnamon Bun, on the other hand, has four hearts of health and is like a big tank character, able to take on the hardest enemies.

Naturally, like all good dungeon crawlers, getting to the bottom floor is only half the fun. You also need to level-up your characters, upgrade your skills and manage your abilities. There is a hub, which looks like the courtyard of the Candy Kingdom, which is filled with characters from the show you can talk to get and get things off. There are various perks you can equip here, which change the abilities of your character. Or you can just have fun meeting characters from the show before you head back down into the scary dungeon. Well, it's not really scary, it's too funny and fun to be really scary. If you like Adventure Time, getting this game is a no-brainer.

THE BIG REVEAL

Perhaps the most exciting thing about the story is that if you manage to make it all the way to the last floor of the dungeon and complete the game, you'll be one of the first to know about a massive reveal in the Adventure Time series. It won't show up in the show to very after the game comes out, so if you want to know about this secret story twist before your friends, you'll have to finish the game. (Ssssh!)

SONIC FINDS HIS FEET

TITLE: Sonic Lost World
FORMAT: 3DS
GENRE: Platformer
RELEASED: 2013

Nobody is going to catch him this time!

We've been in love with Sonic the Hedgehog since 1991. Yep, it was a whopping 22-years ago that Sonic and his blue spikes first curled into a ball and flew onto our TV screens faster than a cat scared by a big burp. It's a cool story, but even better, it's awesome fun to play.

Sonic Lost World takes its lead from the awesome Super Mario Galaxy series that came out on the Wii, which has led to super creative levels that float in space and can be run around in 3D. So instead of just a path in front of you, these worlds are like long tubes, where you can run left and right all the way to the other side of the map as well. This creates multiple paths to explore, with lots of secret platforms to find, new wisps to discover (which grant you special abilities – see the next page for more) and enemies to defeat. Plus new moves, like parkour wall-climbing, flying kicks and vaulting over objects, combine with classics like the spin dash and homing attack (which you can link together into an awesome chain), to make getting around and defeating foes more fun.

Occasionally the going is slow, allowing you to see sights and move about like a Mario game collecting and

DID YOU KNOW?

Sonic has just been announced as a playable character in the new Super Smash Bros. game coming in 2014 exploring, but there are also faster speed sections, where you need to master classic obstacles like rolling loops, pipes, loop-the-loops and more. In fact, the variety of play in this game is really varied. Some levels have Sonic ice skating, others riding a motorcycle, and there are plenty that play out like classic 2D side-scrolling games. When this is all mixed with the bright, cartoonish graphics and super varied world, it almost feels like five games in one.

Perhaps Sonic's most impressive feat, however, is keeping the game just as varied and fun on the 3DS. All too often the 3DS version of a game is a dumbed-down, simpler version of the console title. Not here! Sonic Lost World on 3DS plays just like the console version and looks an absolute treat. It even comes with four-player local and online multiplayer modes, which is slightly better than the two-player offline co-op or competitive multiplayer in the Wii U version.

We'll always love Sonic – the dude is a legend! But it makes it all the more easier to high-five the hedgehog when his games are this good! Check it out!

Meet the Wisps

Just as they did in Sonic Colours and Sonic Generations, the cute little alien wisps return to help our hero out. When Sonic locates these colourful little dudes, they give Sonic special abilities that help him get through the crazy levels. Some cool new wisps join the gang for Sonic Lost World – here is the entire list of what you can expect.

BLACK WISP: Available only on the Wii U version, this wisp transforms Sonic into a black hero that can explode and roll on enemies.

CELESTIAL WISP: Also a Wii U exclusive, this awesome new wisp turns Sonic into an eagle who can soar across gaps and perform a Light Speed Dash.

CHEM WISP: Turns Sonic into a Laser as he can shoot himself around the world.

CHARGE WISP: Only in the 3DS version, this provides an earthquake power, which Sonic can use to plow through.

GREEN WISP: This wisp provides a handy hover ability, great for flying around the level. It is only available in the Wii U version.

HEAD-O WISP: A neat new wisp that allows Sonic to behave like an asteroid, destroying nearby objects and rocks and using the debris to become more powerful.

MOTOMO WISP: Only in the 3DS version, this wisp turns Sonic into lightning and allows him to zip quickly through a level.

MUSICAL WISP: Another sweet new wisp available in the Wii U version, it allows Sonic to use music notes to bounce around the world and even fly while doing so.

OVERWORLD WISP: This cool wisp turns Sonic into a rocket, which fires him high into the sky and lets him skyrocket back to earth.

RED WISP: This explosive power lets sonic zip through the air towards enemies and then burst, causing major damage.

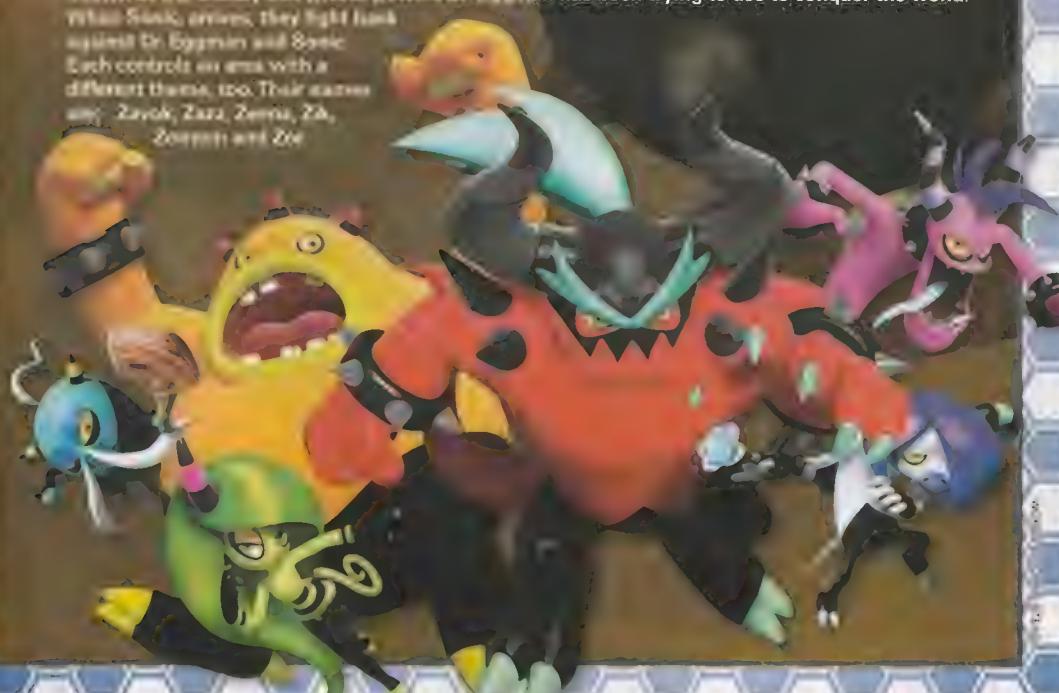

YELLOW WISP: One of six massive wisps, this turns Sonic into a drill, so he can burrow through the ground.

Zee Deadly Six

In Sonic Lost World, our hero Sonic and his speedy tails find themselves on a mysterious floating island called Lost Hex after trying to chase down Dr. Eggman. Here they discover a group known as the Deadly Six, whose powers Dr. Eggman has been trying to use to conquer the world. Within Sonic's arms, they fight back against Dr. Eggman and Sonic. Each controls an area with a different theme, too. Their names are: Zavok, Zara, Zemix, Za, Zommy and Zor.

AUGMENTED AWESOMENESS

Sony is leading the way in augmented reality gaming and this month it's showing off its skills.

THE INVIZIMALS

The Invizimals has to have one of the coolest ideas in the whole of gaming. It lets you hunting down and capturing magical creatures hiding in your real house using the handheld's camera. This month The Invizimals: Alliance launches on the PlayStation Vita, ditching the AR cards from the PS3 version.

No creatures will appear anymore. This means you have to wander around holding your Vita up like a magnifying glass hunting them down. When you find one, you battle it to see if it is one of 25 invizimals and if you win it joins your collection and can be used in future real-time battles. There's 150 to collect, and each can be trained up to become better. But that's only part one story.

Added onto this month is The Invizimals:

The Lost Kingdom

for the PS3. This is 3D adventure game where you play as a shide called Hix who can transform into 16 different Invizimals. So you actually get to play as the Invizimals in their world, using their special abilities to get past obstacles and beat predators— it looks amazing and is our final think. If you have the PS3 version, and ever tried the Vita version, you can still battle each against each other online— awesome!

DID YOU KNOW?

A TV series based on The Invizimals is in the works.

WONDERBOOK RETURNS

We last left WonderBook in back with two consecutive new stories: BBC Walking With Dinosaurs. This time you're invited to visit the world of a paleontologist— dudes who dig up old bones—in your living room. You start by turning the Move controller into hammer to bash every rock, then a broom to sweep all dust and then a saw to cut paleontologist models of a tree. When completed the tree fully comes to life and you are transported millions of years into the past so you can experience what it must have been like as dinosaurs stamp around your lounge room. You can feed them, roar at them and even play as them in fights and chase scenarios. It's one of life's coolest things we have ever seen! The second release,

Book of Potions is from Harry Potter creator J.K. Rowling. It lets you finding and preparing ingredients, making magic potions and then using them to beat the challenges at all enchanted parties. The visuals are stunning and it's especially fun making potions with your friends. Yep, WonderBook is truly wonderful.

VW CONCEPT

Summer's here - time to bug out!

Until now, we haven't seen a sports car which can hit the road, beach, and off-road without damage or drama – but the Volkswagen Concept T 'buggy' may be it!

First shown off at the International Auto Show in Detroit, U.S.A., the VW builders went for a sports coupe/off road 4WD look/feel – in other words, one expensive dune buggy! If anyone can combine the off-road and sports car worlds for a new experience, it's Volkswagen – Europe's most successful auto manufacturer!

This crunching concept is powered up by a 240 horsepower V6 engine. That wicked propulsion hits the wheels through a 4motion all-wheel drive system and an automatic Tiptronic gearbox. Its speed stats don't hurt it either – with an acceleration score of 0 to 100 km/h in 6.9 seconds and a thumping top speed of 230 km/h (electronically limited for your protection!).

Definitely a highlight are the stylish yet techy wing doors, which swing out slightly and move up steeply. This is done to make getting in and out more comfortable, and to make opening the doors no issue – even in a crowded city carpark!

The two part T-bar roof at the front can be taken off very easily and the rear roof hardtop with boot lid can be removed for those who want to tan before they hit the beach!

Once at the beach, all eyes will be on that V-shaped radiator grill sitting pretty in the bumper, as well as the sick eye-like headlights. The headlights 'float' between the bumper and the other panels to give off that real off-roader look and make spectators and surfers think the 19 inch wheels are free standing!

The interior features aluminum flex shell seats which can be washed easily after a dirty drive, as well as soft plastic materials with satin for the fittings and door trims. The outdoor trim can swapped for a leather look if the driver is more of a weekend warrior. Either way, there is plenty of storage space under the rear section for shopping, surfboards or luggage.

Any info the driver could want in the cockpit is shown on a head-up display. The hero here is the Personal Mobility Gateway (PMG) which looks like a slightly bigger smartphone device. From this the driver or passenger can control the onboard air-conditioning, internet, satellite navigation, stereo, and rocket launcher. Ok, the last one we made up, but why should James Bond have all the fun?

ENTREPRENEUR.

KRASH: When did you discover your passion for swimming?

I knew I wanted to become an Olympic Swimmer when I was four-years-old.

KRASH: How did you become an Olympic athlete?

Working extremely hard and having great support around me.

KRASH: How do you stay fit?

I work out six times a week for about an hour. I listen to my body and workout accordingly. If I'm feeling tired I will do yoga or walk, if I'm more energetic I go for a run or play tennis.

KRASH: How do you prepare before a race?

I go through the same pre-race routine every race. Stretching, listening to music, jumping up and down, talking to my coach and thinking positive.

KRASH: How did you transition from competing into the world of media?

There are highs and lows to everything, but it's about learning from every experience.

KRASH: What is the best thing about your job?

Being around people that I love every day. I love the feeling of working towards a goal and seeing myself move forward.

KRASH: What is the most challenging thing about your job?

Waking up to an alarm every morning. Other than that, I love what I do!

KRASH: What encouraged you to work with The Melanoma Foundation?

Spending most of my sporting career in the sun has made me very aware of how dangerous it can be if you don't protect yourself properly. My close friend has had five melanomas cut out and she is only 20. It can happen to anyone.

KRASH: What is involved with being an ambassador for The Melanoma Foundation?

I go around school and swimming centres to talk to kids about Sun Protection and how serious melanomas are. I also go to fundraising events to help raise more money.

KRASH: What made you want to get on-board as an ambassador for the Despicable Me 2 Sun Safety campaign?

As an athlete and an advocate for sun safety, I was really pleased to get on board with the Despicable Me 2 sun safety campaign. There are many sun safety campaigns and messages out there, but this one specifically speaks to kids which is great! The film is being released on Blu-ray and DVD at the start of summer so we thought we'd use everyone's favourite minions to deliver easy sun safety tips to Aussie kids to keep them safe these school holidays.

KRASH: Tell us about the campaign?

We've created a really fun sun safety video for parents to show their kids. It stars the cute and funny Despicable Me minions and myself explaining to kids how to stay safe in the sun. I love the Despicable Me minions and working with such recognisable characters to deliver an important message like sun safety.

KRASH: Why is it so important for kids to understand these sun safety tips?

Skin cancer is unfortunately very common in Australia as we all know how strong our sun is, so it's important for Aussie kids to understand how to stay sun safe from an early age.

KRASH: What's your personal experience with sun safety? Is this an area you are really passionate about?

I am an ambassador for the Melanoma Foundation and the Cancer Council and often we talk only to adults about sun safety. Now being an ambassador for the Despicable Me Sun Safety campaign means we can take the sun safety message to kids as well. I know all too well the importance of staying sun safe as I spend a lot of time outdoors. I'm passionate about helping to educate as many people as possible.

KRASH: Which athlete do you look up to and why?

I have always been inspired by Serena Williams. She is such a tough competitor and is extremely consistent.

KRASH: Who is your favourite character in Despicable Me 2 and why?

The minions, of course! They are so cute and funny, how could you not love them?

KRASH: How are you planning to spend your summer?

I live on the beach so I plan to take up surfing as well as start my own company for kids' swimwear.

KRASH: What advice do you have for people to stay safe in the sun?

I would have to share our tip five sun safety tips we created for the Despicable Me 2 campaign – they are

FREAK FLOWER POWER

Mother Nature sure has a weird sense of humour or she wouldn't have created these freaky flowers. You won't find any of these exotic varieties at your local florist.

CEDAR-APPLE RUST FUNGUS

It looks like a piece of rotting fruit giving birth to a family of worms and we suspect it doesn't taste any better either. Cedar-apple Rust Fungus is guaranteed to freak out anyone who sees it in your lunch box.

CHINESE BLACK BATFLOWERS

There's a good reason Batman strikes fear into the hearts of bad guys. Bats are ugly. Very ugly. Just like these Chinese Black Batflowers. As if they weren't ugly enough already, they have extra tentacles too just to be sure.

BLEEDING TOOTH FUNGUS

This tooth fairy's nightmare looks kind of like a wad of chewing gum that leaked blood. Also known as the devil's tooth, the Bleeding Tooth Fungus' ugly nose has antibiotic properties, kinda like nature's penicillin. All you have to do is lick it. Um, you first... Right behind ya...

DOLL'S EYES

G'men, who pulled all the eyeballs out of all their sister's Bratz doll? Huh, that's a plant? Reaaaaally? While they look just like eyeballs on bloody stalks, tied together by their stems.

Doll's Eyes are actually flowering plants. Oh and just in case you were actually thinking of eating the berries, or 'eyeballs', we should warn you that doing so can lead to cardiac arrest and death.

ORPHIUM FLOWER

Talk about funny. The orphium flower, from South Africa, will only release its pollen when it feels the vibration provided by the note 'middle C'. A bee's wings have to change frequency to vibrate at middle C if they want the flower's goodie.

VENUS FLY TRAP

The Venus Fly Trap is covered in ultra-sensitive fine hairs that detect the presence of everything from ants to spiders. Trigger the hairs and snap! The trap will shut in less than a second. We reckon that's where they got the idea for those desert monsters in Star Wars that slowly eat anyone unlucky enough to stray into the pit.

HEMLOCK

It doesn't look deadly but don't let that fool you. Hemlock is one of the most famous poisonous plants in history. When consumed it causes stomach pains, vomiting and progressive paralysis of the central nervous system. Also known as devil's porridge, it was used to execute the philosopher Socrates, who was sentenced to drink its liquid for failing to acknowledge his city's gods.

THE PAC IS BACK SPECIAL

One of the most famous faces in video gaming, the legendary Pac-Man, is making a huge return to the spotlight this year and while regular fans of Cartoon Network would have heard all about his exciting new video game adventure Pac-Man and the Ghostly Adventures, we've also been able to check out Pac's new range of toys. Last month we took a look at the action figures and the Pineapple Tank, while the previous month we focused on the super fun Spinners. This month we have the Ghost Grabbers, as well as the Minifigures and Goo.

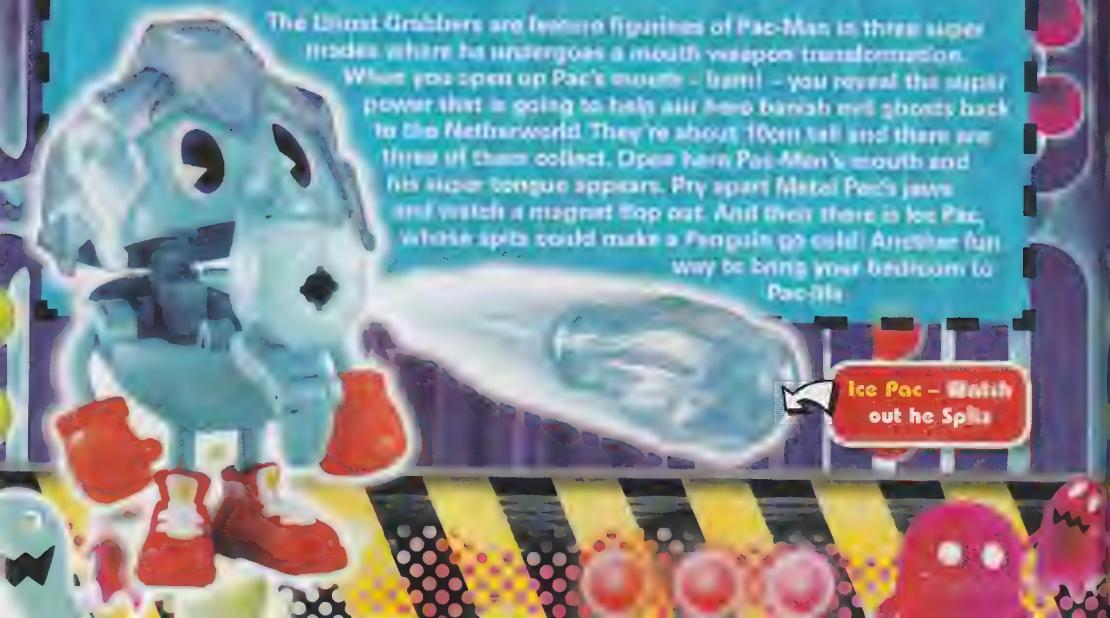

PAC IS BACK... IN ACTION

The legendary Pac-Man is about 10-percent limes, 10-percent systems and, like, 20% mouth. Well, maybe we are exaggerating, but when this guy cracks a smile he could accidentally swallow a car! Having a huge mouth is pretty handy when you love nothing more than gobbling up ghosts, but it can also have some interesting side effects when he snaps his lips around a Super Berry. Any strange power could appear to save the day. This is part of the fun of the Ghost Grabbers, a toy collection based on the new Pac-Man and the Ghostly Adventures TV series and video game.

The Ghost Grabbers are feature figurines of Pac-Man in three super modes where he undergoes a mouth weapon transformation.

When you open up Pac's mouth - Bam! - you reveal the super power that is going to help our hero banish evil ghosts back to the Netherworld. They're about 10cm tall and there are three of them collect. Open here Pac-Man's mouth and his long tongue appears. Pry apart Metal Pac's jaws and watch a magnet pop out. And then there is Ice Pac, whose spits could make a Penguin go cold! Another fun way to bring your bedroom to Pac-ific.

Ice Pac – Watch out he Spits!

GET GOOEY

It's sticky gooey business when it comes to bashing ghosts and Pac-Man is often next on the slime side. The Pac-man Microgum and Goo set lets you put your favourite characters into the snow and rubber band into a goo-biotic situation. Each pack contains three random characters in their microgum form, each of which come in different colours and are impressively detailed. Despite the goo, it's easy to break out this toy to add them your friends' battles as the pack is recyclable. Make sure you keep an alert eye out for the glow-in-the-dark chase figures. It's light up and only turns on once in every twenty packs!

SHAME OF THE MONTH

My family and I were on a holiday in New Zealand. We had hired a camper-van so we could visit lots of places and not have to stay in hotels. It was all going well until we arrived at one of the campervan parks. We got out and went over to a point in the park to see the view. My parents and sister headed back to the campervan, but I stayed and kept looking. Then I turned around and headed back to my campervan. I opened the door and walked in singing really loudly to a Green Day song I was listening to with my mp3 player. Then I saw things that I didn't remember being where they were. (I was still singing really loudly). Then a man who I didn't recognise came in front of me. That's when I realised that I had walked into the wrong campervan... singing! I was so embarrassed. I rushed back to my campervan and made the mistake of telling my sister. She still pays me out about it today!
